

COVID-19 Test Cost

Lexington Clinic has partnered with multiple laboratories for processing of COVID-19 testing. Lexington Clinic will determine to which laboratory we send your COVID-19 test based on each laboratory's availability and capacity at the time you are tested. Depending on which laboratory performs your test, the price could range between $50 - $150. The laboratory determines the price of the test.

For patients with medical insurance, the laboratory will submit the charge to your insurance for processing. Many insurance companies do not bill patients for out-of-pocket costs associated with COVID-19 testing. You should contact your insurance company to determine if your plan will assign out-of-pocket costs for COVID-19 testing.
